

How to guard your personal information?

Facebook allows you to share all your personal information on the social network. These personally-identifying information (PII) are critical to share in the social media, as when it combines with other information could keep your identity or bank account at risk.

These include your birthday, high school, location etc. This information is visible in the 'About' tab under your Facebook cover photo (Home page). There are seven sections you could edit and keep limited information about you to avoid identity risks.

We recommend keeping your personal information away for the public by selecting 'only me' in the option.
